INTRODUCTION

THE STORY OF ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS

Romance of the Three Kingdoms IV: Wall of Fire is the fourth edition of Koei's popular historical simulation series set in the late second and third centuries of ancient China. This game is based on the historical novel "Romance of the Three Kingdoms", and is divided into six scenarios. The year and rulers vary for each scenario, allowing you to enter the game at six different time periods and political warfare. There are 450 male and female officers to choose from, and you may create up to 108 characters using your own imagination. Battle against other rulers to gain control over cities and ultimately conquer all of China.

YOUR GOAL

Your goal in this game is to conquer China by claiming all 43 cities. When this goal is achieved, the player will win the game. If the ruler you are playing happens to die, appoint a subordinate officer as a successor and the game will continue. When there is no successor, the game will end.

SCENARIOS

Depending on the scenario you choose, the rulers and their territories will vary. See "The Age of the Three Kingdoms" on page 46 for more scenario information.

If the vassal city in display is delegated, Button X will cancel the delegation. In a battle, press Button Y or Z to jump around the map and select a unit to command.

COMMAND GUIDE

Press Button Y while the cursor is on a command to display an explanation of that command.

LISTING OFFICER DATA

Press Button A at the main Display to list all the officers in the city which you are currently viewing.

KEY TO PLAY

1. Make sure the power is turned OFF.
2. Open the CD drive door and insert the ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV CD, with the label facing upward.
3. Close the door and turn the game system ON.
4. The introduction will begin. Push START to skip to the start-up menu.

STARTING A NEW GAME

1. Select START NEW GAME at the start-up menu.
 2. Choose one of the six scenarios.
 3. Select the ruler you wish to play by using Button C or Button Z to make a direct selection. You may select up to eight rulers. Select Enter when finished.
- PLAYING NEWLY CREATED RULERS:
If you have created new rulers (see page 9), you may select up to three new rulers in each scenario. For each new ruler, select an unclaimed city (white squares) as the home city, and up to five newly created officers as subordinates. Officers who are related to the ruler will be automatically selected.
 - DEMO:
If you select zero rulers, the game will continue on demo mode. You may stop a demo play and take over the control of a ruler by pressing the START button.
4. Decide whether to view battles between other rulers.
 5. Choose the game mode: Historical or Fictional.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

6. Decide whether the officers you created will take part in the game.
7. Select a game level.
8. Review your game setting. If everything is OK, select YES and the game will begin. To change the setting, select NO and return to the scenario selections.

SAVING A GAME

To save a game during play, press the START button to display the Options menu and select SAVE. You may save one game in the System Memory, and nine games in the Cartridge Memory. You will need 449 blocks available for the System Memory and 497 blocks available space for the Cartridge Memory. When there is not enough memory to save a game, delete a previously saved game or initialize the entire memory (See your Saturn Instruction Manual for more details).

For a multi-player game, only one player needs to save a game.

RESUMING A SAVED GAME

To play a saved game, select LOAD SAVED GAME at the start-up menu. You may also resume a saved game during game play by selecting LOAD under the Options Menu.

THE OPTIONS MENU

Press the START Button from the Main Display to access the Options Menu.

SAVE Save your current game. You may save one game in the System Memory. You may also save an additional nine games if you have a Backup Cartridge.

LOAD Load a saved game.

SPEED Change the speed of the messages by using the up/down arrows on the Directional Pad. The default setting is three. One is the fastest setting.

MUSIC Change the background music to stereo or mono sound.

VIEW Decide whether you want to view battles between other rulers. You cannot change this setting during an extended war.

QUIT Quit the game you are currently playing.

CREATING YOUR OWN CHARACTER

You may create and save up to eight rulers and 100 officers in each game. To save new character data, you must start a new game and save it in the game. Otherwise, the new character data will be lost when you quit the game.

You may choose to:

- Create a new ruler or officer.
- Change data of an existing new ruler or officer.
- Load an existing new ruler or officers from a saved game to use in a new game.

In the Create New Officer menu, the black text means that you may select the item, and the red text means that you may not select the item.

1. Select CREATE NEW OFFICERS at the start-up menu.
2. Decide whether you will load new ruler/officer data from a saved game. If you answer YES, then select one of your saved games from which new ruler/officer data will be loaded. If you answer NO, then decide whether you will create a ruler or officer, or alter already existing characters.
3. Name your character. Use the Directional Pad to move the cursor to access each letter. Press Button C to select a letter or Button B to erase. Enter up to seven letters each for your first and last names. Select DONE to enter the first and last names.
4. Enter the age and gender of your character.
5. Determine the abilities. Each character is assigned a set of basic ability points. Rulers' basic points are determined by their age and officers' basic points are set at random. You may select different ability points for officers by answering NO to the question, "Is this OK?" In addition to the ability points, characters receive 70 bonus points which are to be divided among the five abilities. Adjust each ability points by using the following buttons: Button A to increase points by 1, Button B to decrease points by 1, Button X increase points by 10, and Button Y to decrease points by 10.

You cannot subtract points lower than the minimum ability points.

When the officer's ability points qualify the player for any ranks, the ranks will be displayed under Position.

6. Select a face for your character. Use the Left/Right buttons to flip through more pages, and press Button C to select a face. The faces that have already been selected for other characters are numbered in red.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

7. Decide if you want kinship ties with existing characters. You may only create kinship ties when entering an officer's data. The age difference between the parent and child must be between 16-40 years. A parent and child will not betray each other even if they have low loyalty levels. Special talents are randomly selected by the computer.
8. To change any part of the character data, answer NO at "Is everything OK?" and move the white cursor to the setting that you wish to change and press C.

VIEWING OFFICER PROFILES

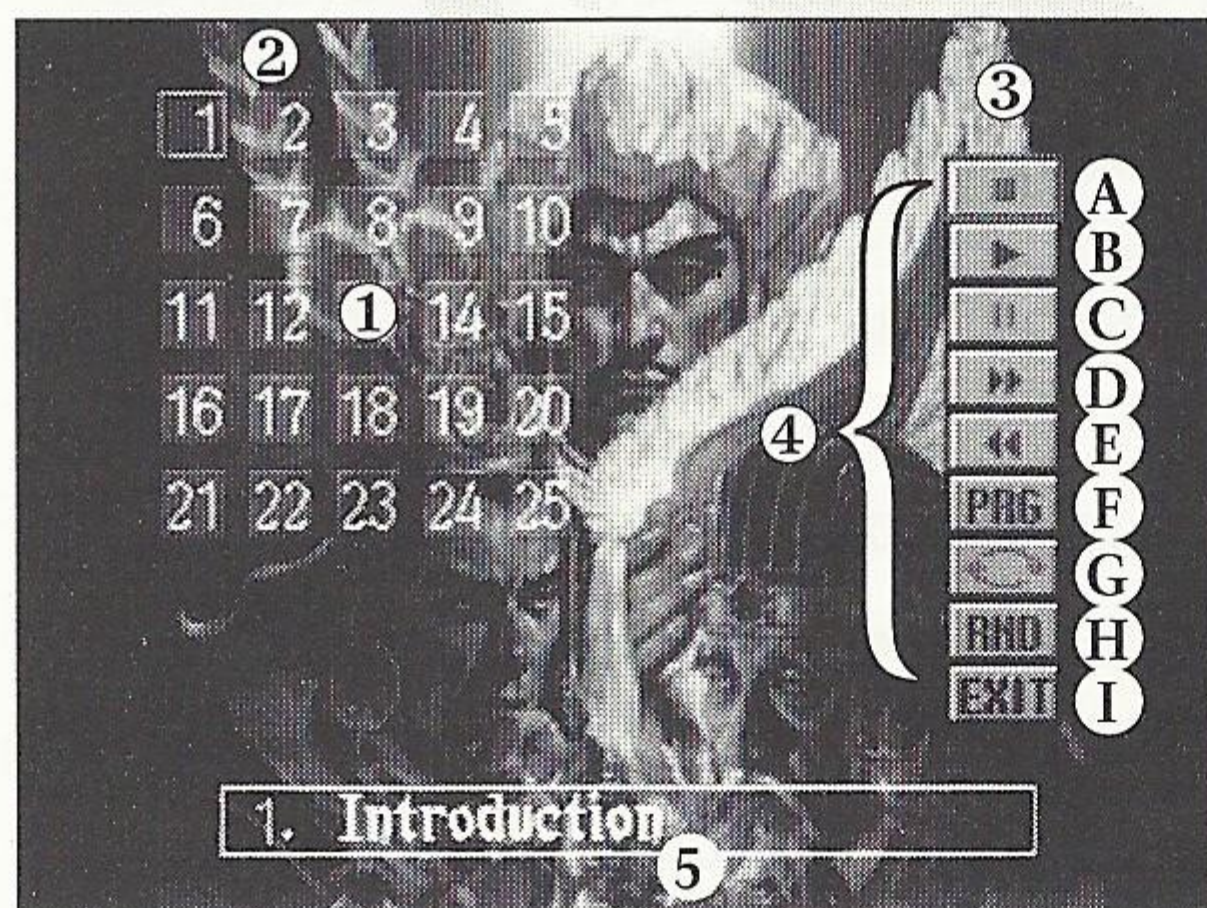

Before you start a game, you may view the abilities and a brief profile of about 450 historical characters in the Romance of the Three Kingdoms.

1. Select VIEW OFFICER PROFILES at the start-up menu.
2. Select a category with which you wish to sort officers. To sort by names, select the first letter of the first name. To sort by other categories, select the range of the ability points.
3. Once a officer list is displayed, use Left/Right button to display more pages. Once officer data is displayed, use the Left/Right button to display the talent screen.

In Officer Profiles, you may view one additional attribute: Honor. Zero is the lowest, 15 is the highest. This is the only place where you can view Honor in this game.

LISTENING TO THE GAME MUSIC

Select LISTEN THE TO GAME MUSIC at the start-up menu and enjoy the full orchestrated game music of Romance of the Three Kingdoms with audio controls.

- | | |
|-----------------------|---------------------------|
| ① Title Number Pad | C Pause |
| ② Title Cursor | D Skip Forward |
| ③ Command Cursor | E Skip Backward |
| ④ Control | F Program Play |
| Command Menu | G Repeat Play |
| ⑤ Selected Song Title | H Random Play |
| A Stop | I Exit to Game Setup Menu |
| B Play | |

Use the Directional Pad to move the Command Cursor and select a control command with Button C. Selected commands will be highlighted. Button B will cancel a selected command and move the cursor to STOP. To return to the start-up menu, select EXIT. The function of these commands are the same as those of audio CD players.

USING PROGRAM PLAY FOR SELECTIVE LISTENING

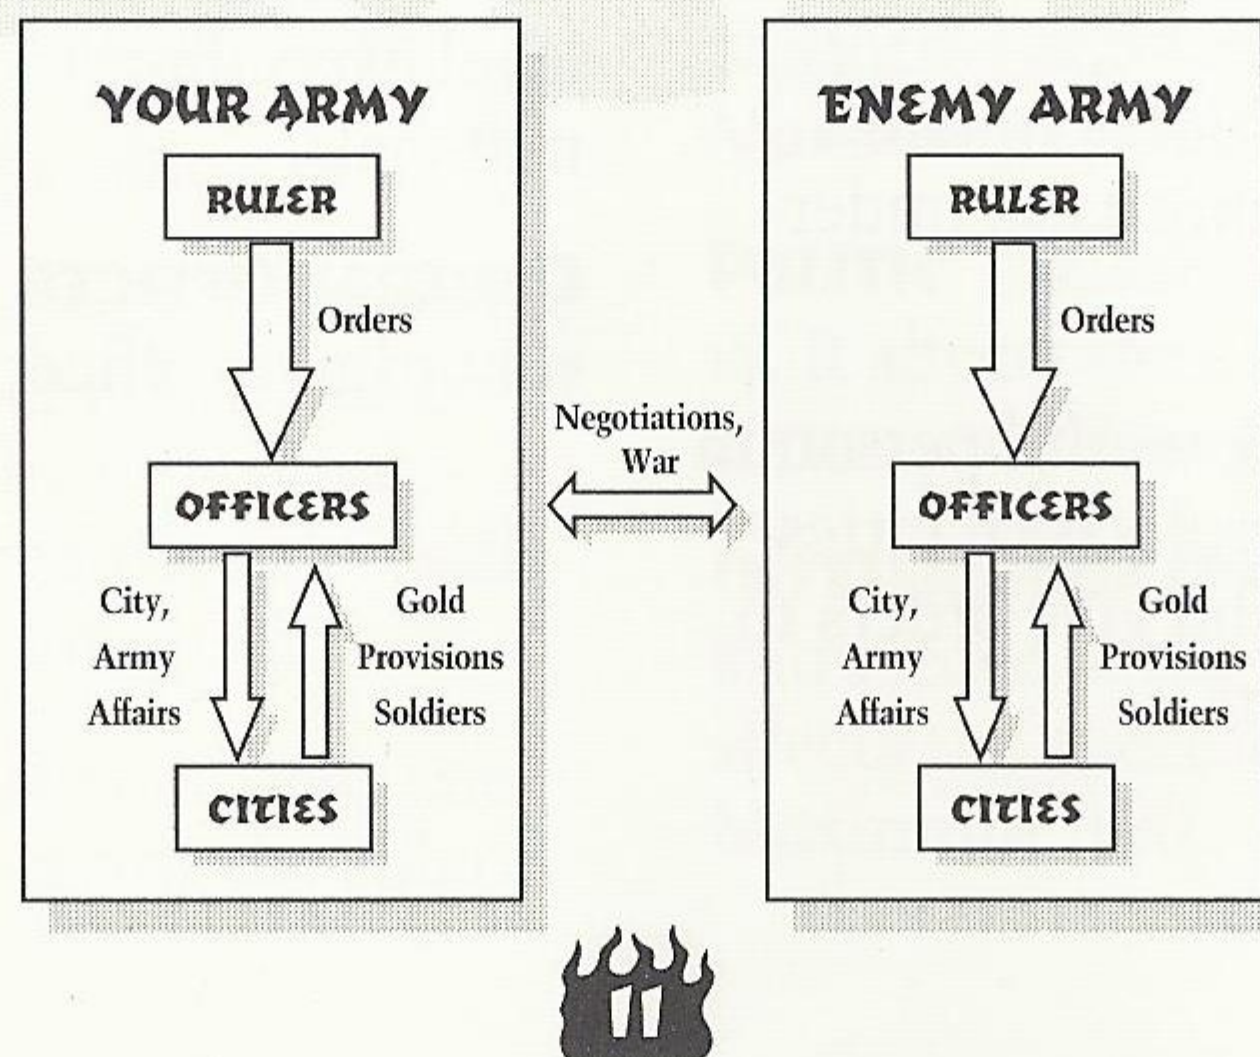

Select PROGRAM to clear the default order on the Title Number Pad and activate the programming mode. Use the up/down arrows of the Directional Pad to scroll through the song titles in display and press Button C to enter the displayed title number. Use the right/left arrows of the Directional Pad to move the Title Cursor. When you finished entering title numbers, press Button B to exit from the programming mode (The Title Cursor will be locked on the first square). Then move the Command Cursor to PLAY to listen to the music in the programmed order. To cancel Program Play, select PROGRAM again and unhighlight it.

GAME FLOW

In ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV, a ruler must oversee all aspects of city, foreign, and army affairs. Use the commands in the Main Display to plot against enemy rulers (see Main Display, page 19).

Your cities and officers will become a key point in your strategy. Increase the productivity of cities with the City command and secure a stable source of gold and provisions for your army. Find loyal and talented officers to carry out your commands and oversee your cities and soldiers.

Once you have enough strength, declare war on another city. Attack and defend cleverly in battle to secure a victory. When you win a battle against another ruler, you will gain their city. On the contrary, if another ruler declares war on your city and you lose, you will lose your city. Plan ahead and build up your army with clever strategy and successful battles. Soon, you will conquer all of China and win the game!

WEAPONS

CROSSBOW (X-BOW) A general bow and when used as a firebolt, your attacking power will increase. You can build crossbows when your technology is 20 or above.

STRONG CROSSBOW (STR X)

A larger crossbow. Its power and shooting range is one and a half times stronger than the regular crossbow. You can build strong crossbows when your technology is 40 or above.

AUTO CROSSBOW (Auto X)

An automatic crossbow. Its power is twice as strong as the regular crossbow. You can build auto crossbows when your technology is 60 or above.

BATTERING RAM (RAM) This weapon is designed to destroy castle gates during a castle battle. The tip of the armored mallet is swung like a pendulum to break through the castle door. When attacking the castle gate with the battering ram, the result is three to four times greater than a regular unit's gate attack. When the unit is wiped out in battle, the battering ram will be destroyed. You can build the battering ram when your technology is 80 or above.

CATAPULT (C-PULT) This weapon is used to attack at the castle gate or distant units in a castle battle. Attack by launching boulders with this large catapult. When attacking the castle gate with the catapult, the result is three to four times greater than a regular unit's gate attack. When the unit is wiped out in battle, the catapult will be destroyed. You can build the catapult when your technology is 100 or above.

SPECIAL ITEMSHOW TO GET AN ITEM

Sometimes you may discover an item, instead of an officer, when you use Search under the Staff command. You may also receive items from a traveler in the city.

USING AN ITEM You may reward your officers by giving them items. When you reward an officer, that officer's loyalty will rise. The amount an officer's loyalty will increase depends on the item you reward.

Each item increases a certain ability of your officer. The ability will continue until the item is lost. When an officer has several items that affect the same ability, only the item with the highest value will affect the ability.

TYPES OF ITEMS There are four types of items: books, horses, weapons and the hereditary seal.

BOOKS Increases an officer's intelligence, loyalty and political ability. Some books give officers special talents. When certain books are in a ruler's possession, the subordinate officers will recover from sickness and injury faster.

New Treatise of Meng De: Written by Cao Cao and will raise your loyalty, intelligence and political ability.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

HORSES An officer with a strong horse will have a higher success rate of fleeing from a battle or duel. Horses will also increase their owner's loyalty.

Red Hare: The fastest horse that has a 100 percent success rate of fleeing in a duel.

WEAPONS Spears and swords will increase your loyalty and power in battle.

Spear of the Eclipse: A strong spear that represents the balance of two contrasting elements, the sun and moon.

HEREDITARY SEAL

This will give a ruler enough power to become the emperor. The ruler's leadership and charm level will increase to 100.

COMMANDING YOUR CITY

MAIN DISPLAY

- ① Month, year and city name
- ② Map
- ③ City Data Window
- ④ Main Commands

Plan your strategy by using the Main Commands. Use the right/left arrows of the Directional Pad to scroll through the command menu. Use Right/Left Buttons to flip through City Data Screens. Button A lists all the officers in the city. Button Z allows you to move from one city to another within your territory.

The red markers between cities on the Main Map indicate historical battle sites and the blue markers indicate naval battle sites.

MAIN COMMANDS

Subcommands marked with a (L) refer to Long-term commands. Long-term commands require several months and are completed over a series of turns.

The words in "< >" refer to the Special Talents required for officers to execute the command. A ruler, however, is capable of carrying out any command, regardless of his talents and abilities. For description of special talents, see page 14.

ARMY

Except for the War command, the leadership, power, intelligence, and political ability levels affect these commands.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

- ▶ MOVE Move officers to neighboring vassal cities or unclaimed cities. Select the officers and a city to which you will move them. You may move as many officers as you wish. When you move an officer to an unclaimed city, that city will become your vassal city.
- ▶ SEND Send gold, provisions, soldiers, crossbows, strong crossbows, auto crossbows, horses, battering rams, and catapults to your cities. Select an officer who will execute the command and a city to which you will send the goods. You cannot send goods to cities that already have the maximum amount of goods. The success of the shipment depends on the distance as well as the officer's leadership, power, political ability, and intelligence levels. Be careful, goods can be stolen by bandits!
- ▶ WAR Attack a neighboring city. Select a city to attack and the game will ask you to organize your units (see The Art of War, page 31).
- ▶ DRAFT Draft people from the city. Select an officer to be in charge and the amount of people you would like to draft. You will need at least 10 gold pieces and 10 barrels of provisions per one unit of soldiers. When you draft, your city population and support will decrease. The number of people you can draft depends on the city population. You cannot draft people from cities that have a population of less than 50,000 people.
- ▶ TRAIN (L) Train the soldiers. Select up to 10 officers to be in charge and the length of the training period. The result of the training depends on the officers' leadership, power, and training period. When you select Train from Report in the Information command, the officer in charge will report on the status of the soldiers in training.
- ▶ BUILD <BUILD> (L) Build weapons. Select the officer who will be in charge and the type and number of weapons you will build. The amount of time and gold it costs to build weapons depends on the officer's political ability and technology level of the city. When you select Build from Report in the Information command, the officer in charge will report on the current progress.
- ▶ SPY <SPY> (L) Spy in a territory. Select the officer who will be the spy and the territory. The longest time you can spy is six months. The spying will take place in all cities within the territory. The success depends on the officer's political ability, length of time, and the distance to the territory. Use the Information-City command to view enemy's information from your spy.

There are eight territories in this game:

Peach	Yong Territory	Red	Yang Territory
Yellow	Yo Territory	Light Blue	North Jing Territory
White	Xu Territory	Orange	South Jing Territory
Purple	Yu Territory	Lime Green . .	Yi Territory

STAFF

The power, intelligence, political ability, and charm levels affect the success of these commands.

► SEARCH <RECRUIT> (L) Search for inactive officers. The time to search varies. If you find an inactive officer, you may be able to recruit him. Select the officer and the territory you will search. The success depends on the officer's political ability and the territory you search. You may discover items.

► RECRUIT <RECRUIT> Recruit officers for your army. You may recruit free and captive officers from your cities and subordinate officers of enemy rulers from other cities.

Recruiting free and captive officers: Select which officer you will recruit and an officer to execute your commands.

Recruiting an enemy officer: Select which officer you will recruit and decide how much gold to offer. You can recruit enemy officers only from adjacent enemy cities.

The success of recruiting depends on the officer's power, political ability, intelligence and charm. When you, the ruler, recruits an officer, you must decide whether you will: Insist, Beg, Invite, or Charm the officer.

► REWARD Give a reward to a subordinate officer. This will increase the officer's loyalty. You may reward up to 10 officers at one time. The highest amount of gold you may give one officer is 100 pieces per turn. You may also give items. The success depends on the governor's (or ruler's) charm, amount of gold, and type of item.

► GIVE Give provisions to the people of the city to increase your support level. The highest amount of provisions you may give a city is 1000 barrels per turn. The result depends on the officer's charm level. This command can increase your support up to 80.

CITY

Adjust the city's domestic policy. The level of political ability affects this command. An officer may execute a City command and another command at the same time. When an officer executes two commands at once, however, the result of the commands will be half.

1. Select the city you wish to command.
2. Select an officer who will be in charge of a city task. You may select two officers for one task, but you may not select one officer for two separate tasks. The officer who is selected will remain with that task until you cancel it. To cancel the officer you selected, highlight the officer and press Button C.
3. Enter the amount of gold you will invest. The amount of gold will decrease every month. Cities that have tasks with less than 100 gold pieces invested will appear on the map as . Tasks cannot be executed without gold.

- FARM Increase your city's productivity by farming the land.
- DAM Increase your city's ability to withstand floods by building dams.
- ECONOMY Develop your city's economy.
- TECHNOLOGY Increase your city's technological level. This is important for building weapons and will influence the type of weapons you can build.

MARKET

Trade at the market. The price of goods at the market can vary from month to month. The market rates are shown in the Market Window. The ratios by Provision Sell and Provision Cost indicate the quantity you can buy and sell for one piece of gold. The numbers by crossbow, strong crossbow and horses are the prices for these items. Depending on the month, there are certain things you cannot trade.

- PROVISION SELL (P. SELL) Sell your provisions.
- PROVISION BUY (P. BUY) Cost to buy provisions.
- CROSSBOW (X-BOW) Buy crossbows.
- STRONG CROSSBOWS (STRONG X) Buy strong crossbows.
- HORSES Buy horses.

PLOT

Frame a plot against another enemy city. The loyalty, leadership, intelligence, political ability, and charm levels affect this command. Your plots will be more successful if first you gather information on the city by sending a spy with the Army-Spy command.

► HIDE Hide an officer in an enemy city. The hidden officer must have a loyalty level over 95. Select a city and an officer who will hide. If you succeed, the officer will be in hiding for six months. The officer in hiding will report city information every two months. Use the Information command to view the city information while the officer is in hiding. An officer in hiding can betray an enemy unit, when in battle. After six months, the officer will automatically return to your city.

► BRIBE <BRIBE> Bribe an enemy officer to betray his ruler in battle. Select a city and an officer to bribe. The success of bribing an enemy depends on your the officer's intelligence and charm and the enemy officer's loyalty level.

► REBEL <REBEL> Persuade an enemy's governor to rebel against the ruler. If you succeed, a rebellion will take place and the governor will become an independent ruler. Your success depends on your officer's intelligence, charm, and the governor's loyalty.

► GOSSIP <GOSSIP> Spread bad rumors about a rival ruler in his city. Select an enemy city and an officer who will set the plot. Your success depends on your officer's intelligence and charm. Select among whom you will spread rumors:

Officers: Spread bad rumors among the ruler's officers. This will succeed only when the officer's loyalty levels are low.

People: Spread bad rumors among the people. If you succeed, the support level and economic value of the city will decrease.

Depending on the situation, the people may start a revolt.

► ARSON <ARSON> Set fire to an enemy city. Select a city and an officer who will carry out your orders. Your success depends on your officer's power and intelligence. There are three items which you can set on fire:

Provisions: Set an enemy's granary on fire and their provisions will decrease.

Arms: Set an enemy's armory on fire and their weapons will decrease.

Both: Set both the granary and the armory on fire. The enemy's provisions and the weapons will decrease, but the effect will be half compared to setting only the granary or armory on fire.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

► SNOOP <SNOOP> Send an officer to investigate another city. Select a city and an officer who will carry out your orders. Your success of snooping depends on your officer's intelligence and political ability. If you succeed, and the city which you are snooping on has higher data than your city, your city's data will increase. You are able to investigate the following four areas:

Farm: Check how the enemy farms the land.

Dam: Check how the enemy builds dams.

Economy: Check the enemy's trade knowledge.

Technology: Check how the enemy builds weapons.

FOREIGN <FOREIGN>

Establish foreign relations with rival rulers and foreign tribes. Select a city, an officer who will carry out your orders, the duration of the agreement, and the terms of the negotiation. Your success in establishing foreign relations depends on the terms of negotiation, your officer's political ability, and the other ruler's hostility (except when you use the command Revoke). The following commands are used when negotiating an agreement:

Accept: Accept the terms of the negotiation.

Refuse: Refuse the terms of the negotiation.

Terms: Refuse the terms of the negotiation and request new terms.

Advice: Get advice from the advisor and/or civil officer.

Info: View information on your city.

► ALLY Form an alliance with another ruler. If you succeed, the allied city's hostility will decrease and they will be less likely to attack you. When you defend, you can request reinforcement units from your ally. The maximum length of an alliance is five years. You cannot form an alliance with foreign tribes.

NOTE: After you form an alliance, the length of the alliance will be represented by "Y" for years and "M" for months.

► JOINT Ask your allies to join you in an attack against another ruler's city. If you succeed, the allied ruler will send forces when your army attacks the enemy. Keep in mind that the allied ruler may betray the agreement and decide not to support your attack. The agreement is valid for three months.

► GIFT Give a present to a foreign tribe or another ruler. If you succeed, their hostility will decrease, and if you fail, their hostility will increase.

► THREAT Threaten another ruler to surrender. If the ruler surrenders, he and his officers will become your subordinate officers and you will gain control of all cities under that ruler's control. If the ruler does not surrender, their hostility will increase. You cannot threaten foreign tribes.

► REVOKE Revoke an alliance. This will increase hostility towards you.

► SWAP Ask for a swap of prisoners. If you succeed, the prisoner will be set free and will return to their city. You are able to make two types of swaps:

Swap: Make an exchange of prisoners.

Gold: Exchange gold for your imprisoned officers.

► INVADE Ask a foreign tribe to invade an enemy's city. If you succeed, the selected city will be attacked. Depending on the location of the tribe, the cities that can be attacked will differ. Foreign tribes may attack your cities and decrease the number of your soldiers, but they cannot take control of your cities. You may, however, be able to take their officers as prisoners. The following are the types of tribes:

Qiang Tribe: Tribal people in northwest China.

Shanyue Tribe: Tribal people in southeast China.

Niaowan Tribe: Tribal people in northeast China before the year 207.

Nanman Tribe: Tribal people in southwest China after the year 208.

RULER

► DELEGATE <DELC> Delegate direct control of the city to the governor. Select the city and the type of delegated control. There are three ways to delegate control:

Delegate: Delegate all vassal cities to the governors. There are two types of delegated control.

Army: The city will emphasize army affairs. The governor may invade an enemy city on his own.

City: The city will emphasize city affairs. Supplies will be sent to cities with a low supply.

Regain: Regain control of all vassal cities.

City: Select a city to delegate or regain direct control.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

► ASSIGN Assign a rank to a subordinate officer. An officer must have the abilities required for the certain rank. Select the city, the officer, and the rank. Your choices of rank to assign are: Governor, Advisor, Civil Officer, Marshal, Chief Advisor, and Chief Civil Officer. When there is more than one advisor or civil officer in a city, select one chief advisor or chief civil officer who will be in charge of giving advice on that city.

► PUNISH Punish a subordinate officer. There are three ways to punish an officer:

Demote: Demote an officer from their rank of Advisor, Civil Officer or Marshal. The loyalty of the demoted officer will decrease.

Fire: Fire an officer. This officer will become a free officer. Once you fire an officer, it will be difficult to recruit that officer again.

Seize: Confiscate an officer's item. The officer's loyalty will decrease.

► EXILE Leave the city and most of your possessions behind and go into exile. Only the officers in your home city may accompany you. When you go into exile, your turn for that month will end. From the next month, you will be limited to the exile commands: Information, Map, and the commands listed below. The following commands cannot be used, when you are at a city in an extended war.

Move: Move to a neighboring city.

Recruit: Recruit a free officer from that city.

Plead: Ask for aid in gold or provisions from the ruler of the city. You cannot request aid from an unclaimed city.

Settle: Settle in an unclaimed city and declare your rule there. From the following month, you may execute commands in the Main Commands Menu.

Rumors: Get information from the people in the city.

► HOME Select your home city to command. This command is the same as selecting your home city with the Map command.

► VASSAL Select your vassal cities to command. This command is the same as selecting a vassal city with the Map command.

INFORMATION (INFO)

- ▶ OFFICER View information on all of your officers. Use the left/right arrows on the Directional Pad to flip through pages of the officer list and the Left/Right Buttons to view more officer data. Select an officer from this list to view the Officer Data Screen.
- ▶ VASSAL View information on your vassal cities. Use the left/right arrows on the Directional Pad to flip through pages of city names and the Left/Right Buttons to view more city data. Select a city to display city statistics in one page. Select the Officer command at the bottom of the screen to list all officers in that city. When you select an officer from this list, the Officer Data Screen will appear.
- ▶ CITY View city information. Select the city you wish to view and press Button A. The City Data Screen will appear. Select Officer at the City Data Screen to display a list of officers in that city. When you select a certain officer from this list, the Officer Data Screen will appear.
- ▶ EVENTS View the events that occurred in the cities. Select a particular event (Locust, Plague, Flood, Typhoon, Rich Harvest and Scarce Harvest) to view which cities have experienced each event. See Events on page 29 for more information.
- ▶ REPORT Order your officers or soldiers to report on the status of their assigned tasks. Select a city to display the Report Screen. You may view the data and a report on: Farm, Dam, Economy, Technology, Training, Soldiers, and Build.

ADVICE Hear advice from a subordinate officer or traveler in the city.

- ▶ ADVICE: Hear advice from a subordinate officer.
- ▶ VISIT: Talk to a famous traveler in that city and hear advice.

MAP View and select cities at the Main Display. Move the cursor to a city under your control and press Button C to enter commands for that city. When you move the cursor to an enemy city where you have a spy, you may view enemy information on the City Data Screen.

CONSULTATION

A consultation may occur in January. At your turn, a subordinate officer will offer you advice. The advice may vary from your city's strength, the army's strength, or foreign relations. You have the option to listen to the officer's advice by selecting YES or NO. If you select YES, you will hear the advice and must decide whether to Accept, Reject or Consult the advice. If you select NO, you will return to the Main Display.

ACCEPTING ADVICE When you accept the officer's advice, a command will be executed according to the advice. Once you accept the advice, you cannot cancel the command. Your officer's loyalty will increase when you accept his advice.

REJECTING ADVICE When you reject the advice the officer's loyalty will decrease and the game will return to the Main Display.

CONSULTING THE ADVICE Consult the content of the advice with other officers. This will lead you into the Consult Screen.

The order of the consultation is as follows:

1. Hear the opinions of five officers. To cancel the consultation, press Button B and the game will return to the Main Display.
2. If you wish to accept an officer's opinion, select the name of the officer. You cannot cancel the command after you accept an opinion.

EVENTS

During the game, various events will take place. The game is divided into the following seasons which affect these events: Spring (January-March), Summer (April-June), Fall (July-September) and Winter (October-December).

PERIODIC EVENTS

GOLD COLLECTION Every year in January, gold is collected from the people of the city. The amount collected depends on the people's loyalty, the economy level, the size of the city, and the governor's charm.

PROVISIONS COLLECTION Every year in July, provisions are collected from the people of the city. The amount of provisions collected depends on the city's farming level, damming level, and the size of the city.

GOLD ALLOWANCE Every year in January you must pay your officers and soldiers in gold. The amount of gold depends on the number of officers and soldiers. If there is not enough gold, the officers' loyalty and the number of soldiers decrease.

PROVISIONS ALLOWANCE Every year in July, you must provide your officers and soldiers with provisions. The amount depends on the number of officers and soldiers. When there is not enough provisions, the officers' loyalty and the number of soldiers will decrease.

VISIT Wise travelers visiting your city may give you advice. You may be able to receive items or improve an officer's health.

DISASTROUS EVENTS

The following information can be accessed by selecting Event under the Information command in the Main Display.

LOCUST From spring to fall, large swarms of locust may appear. This will decrease your farming level, provisions, and people's support.

PLAGUE Regardless of the season, plagues will break out. This will decrease your population, number of soldiers, economy, and people's support.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

FLOOD During the summer, floods will occur in valleys with large rivers. The higher the city's damming level, the less flood damage. Floods will decrease the levels of farming, damming, economy, technology, population, and the number of soldiers.

TYPHOON Typhoons occur in the summer. The higher the city's damming level, the less the damage. This will decrease farming level, damming level, economy prices, technology level, population, and the number of soldiers.

RICH The crops will increase and double the amount of provisions that will be collected that year.

SCARCE The crops will decrease and lower the amount of provisions that will be collected that year by 50%.

REVOLT Regardless of the season, people will raise revolts. The lower the people's loyalty, the more likely that there will be a revolt. This will decrease the people's support, number of soldiers, population, and farming and economy levels.

REBELLION Rebellion among the officers. When governors rebel, they become a new independent ruler. The other officers will either become the new ruler's subordinates or free officers. When officers other than the governor rebel, the number of soldiers and the people's support decrease.

THE ART OF WAR

BEFORE WAR

You will enter a battle when you attack, defend, or fight a battle as a reinforcement or joint unit.

THE FLOW OF WAR

There are three levels of battle: field battle, castle battle, and final battle. Depending on the defending sides' decision or the outcome of a battle, the level will change. Fulfill the victory conditions to win a battle in each level.

FIELD BATTLE

A field battle will begin when the defending side decides to counterattack in a field battle. If the battlefield is near a large river, the armies will enter a naval battle (see Naval Battle, page 39). When the defending side is defeated in a field battle, they have the option to Oppose or Flee the battle.

Oppose: Move to a castle battle in their city.

Flee: Give the victory to the attacking side. The defending side will flee to another city or an unclaimed city.

CASTLE BATTLE

A castle battle occurs when the defending side decides not to counterattack in a field battle, or selects Oppose after they lose a field battle. When the castle gate has been destroyed, the defending side may select to fight a Final battle or Flee.

Final Battle: Move to a final battle (see Final Battle, below).

Flee: Give the victory to the attacking side. The defending side will flee to another city or an unclaimed city.

FINAL BATTLE

A final battle occurs when the defending side has lost a castle battle and has selected Final Battle. The attacking side selects whether the final battle will be determined by fighting with Soldiers or a Duel.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

Soldiers: The computer will decide the winner of the battle based on the strength of the troops.

Duel: The winner will be decided in a duel. Select whether to duel one on one, three on three or five on five.

VICTORY CONDITIONS

One of the following conditions must be met to win a battle:

1. Capture an enemy ruler.
2. Defeat all enemy units.
3. Make all enemy officers flee to another city.
4. Make an enemy unit comply to a cease-fire (except in cases where the defending side forfeits).
5. Win a final battle.

TURN ROTATIONS IN BATTLE

In battle, one turn equals one day. The turn rotation begins with the defending side and ends with the attacking side. Use the War commands to command your units in battle.

EXTENDED WAR

If a battle continues for 30 turns and the winner has not been decided, an extended war begins and the screen returns to the Main Display. After all rulers have completed their turns, the war will resume.

The Extended War Information Window may be viewed by selecting the city with the Map command.

PREPARING FOR BATTLE

Prepare for battle by following the steps below:

STEPS:

1. Select the city you wish to attack and organize your units (see Organizing Your Army on the next page).
2. The attacking side selects whether or not to request joint units from other cities under the ruler's control. If you want the support, you must decide from which city you will send a joint unit and then organize the joint unit.
3. The defending side decides whether or not to request reinforcements from an allied neighboring city. To ask for reinforcements, select an officer who will be a messenger and which city to ask. If the officer is successful then the allied city will send out reinforcements.

4. The defending side decides between a counterattack in a field battle or a castle battle, and organize units. If you decide to counterattack in a field battle, you must appoint commander-in-chief and amount of provisions and gold to take to the battle.
5. The defending side selects whether or not to send reinforcements from a neighboring vassal city. If you want reinforcements, you must select a vassal city and then organize the reinforcement units.
6. The game will switch to the Battle Display (see Battle Display, page 36). When units are positioned, the battle will begin.

ORGANIZING YOUR ARMY

TYPES OF ARMY

TYPE OF ARMY		FIELD BATTLE	CASTLE BATTLE
Defense	Regular Unit from the defending city (blue)
	Reinforcement Unit from a vassal city (light green)
	Reinforcement Unit from an allied city (green)
Offense	Regular Unit from the attacking city (red)
	Joint Unit from a vassal city (orange)
	Joint Unit from an allied city that agreed to a joint attack (purple)

FORMATION OF AN ARMY

One army is organized from 1-5 regular units and 1-3 reinforcement and joint units. The number of officers that can be organized into one army are 1-10 officers in the regular units and 1-5 officers in the reinforcement and joint units. There must be one commander-in-chief to lead the regular units and all of the commanders. When the ruler or governor goes to battle, they become the commander-in-chief. When the commander-in-chief (except for the ruler) gets captured or dies in battle, you must select a new commander-in-chief. The ruler or governor cannot participate in a battle as a reinforcement and joint unit. The reinforcement and joint units can be sent only from neighboring cities and will arrive after the battle has begun.

SELECTING COMMANDERS

You may select up to one commander and zero to two lieutenant commanders. Place the cursor on the empty box, press Button C, then select an officer from the list. After you have selected a commander, select a lieutenant commander. When the ruler or governor goes to battle, they must be commander-in-chief. After you are finished selecting commanders, press Enter.

To cancel the commander you selected, place the cursor on the name you wish to erase and press Button C.

COMMANDER ABILITIES

Decide who will be the commander and lieutenant commander by analyzing the data in the list of available officers. A check mark will be displayed under the unit markers when the officer has the ability to lead that unit in battle.

Name	Lead	Power	Inf	Cav	Arch	Nav
Ma Dai	77	83	✓	✓
Guo Youzhi	40	32
Ma Zhong	78	69	✓

SELECTING THE TYPE OF UNIT

One unit is organized by one commander, zero to two lieutenant commanders, and a maximum of 300 soldiers. There are seven different types of units: Infantry, Cavalry, Crossbow, Strong Crossbow, Auto Crossbow, Catapult, and Battering Ram.

To select the type of units, move the white cursor, press Button C until a desired unit type is displayed, and select Enter. You cannot select an archery or cavalry unit if the number of weapons or horses that you have is less than the number of soldiers in that unit. You cannot select a cavalry unit if you are defending in a castle battle.

Infantry: A unit that is organized by only soldiers.

Cavalry: Organized by the same number of soldiers and horses.

Crossbow (X-Bow): Organized by the same number of soldiers and crossbows.

Strong Crossbow (Strong X): Organized by the same number of soldiers and strong crossbows.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

Auto Crossbow (Auto X): Organized by the same number of soldiers and auto crossbows.

Battering Ram (Ram): The unit is organized by soldiers and one battering ram per unit. This unit can only be selected for a castle battle.

Catapult (C-pult): The unit is organized by soldiers and one catapult per unit. This unit can only be selected for a castle battle.

UNIT TYPES AND MOBILITY Units have mobility levels. Each turn the unit will move within its mobility range. Depending on the terrain, the amount of mobility used with each move will differ.

MARKER	UNIT TYPE	BASIC MOBILITY
	Infantry Unit	5-12
	Crossbow Unit	(Depending
	Strong Crossbow Unit	on training
	Auto Crossbow Unit	and spirit)
	Cavalry Unit	15
	Naval Unit	12
	Battering Ram	6
	Catapult	6

TERRAIN There are three factors about the terrain: required mobility, effect of the terrain, and the altitude.

Required Mobility: The amount of mobility required for a unit to move to that terrain.

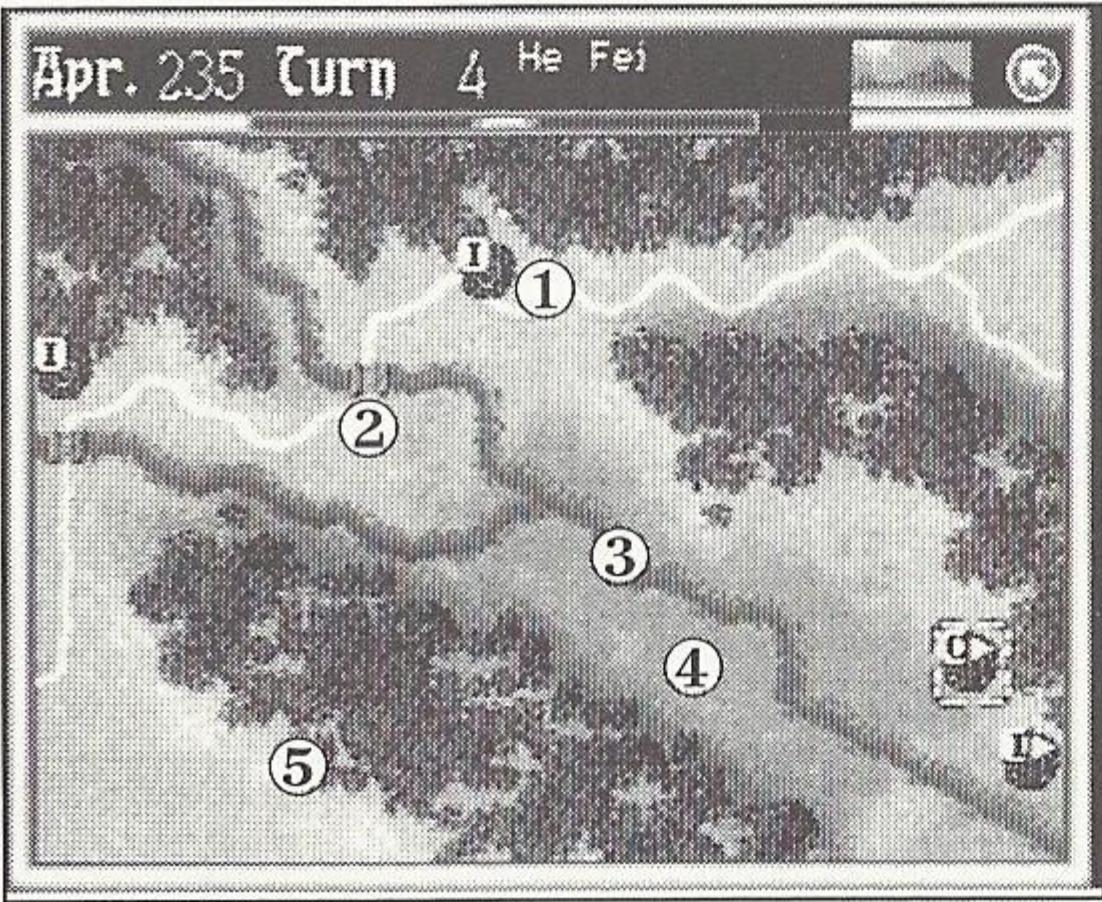

Effect of the Terrain: The effect on your attack and defense abilities. Generally, the unit positioned on terrain with a higher effect will be at an advantage. The unit will have a better advantage, the larger the difference between the effect of the terrain.

Altitude: The height of the terrain will also affect your attack and defense abilities. The unit at a higher altitude will have an advantage.

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

TYPES OF TERRAIN

FIELD BATTLE

TERRAIN TYPE	REQUIRED MOBILITY	EFFECT OF THE TERRAIN
① Road	3	6
② Bridge	3	6
③ River	7 {3}	4 {6}
④ Swamp	5	5
⑤ Plains	3	6
⑥ Grasslands	3	6
⑦ Forest	4	5
⑧ Mountain	4-5	9-13

Some mountains are closed to only cavalry units or entire units.
*Information in "{" indicates naval battle values.

CASTLE BATTLE

TERRAIN TYPE	REQUIRED MOBILITY	EFFECT OF THE TERRAIN
① Plains	3	6
② Ladder Cavalry, battering ram, and catapult units cannot use the ladder.	4	5
③ Castle Gate	no entry
④ Castle Wall	no entry
⑤ Above the Castle Wall	3	6

PLACING YOUR UNITS When a war begins, position your units where blue circles are displayed. The defending units will be positioned before the attacking units. After the battle begins, the reinforcements and joint units will arrive and automatically be positioned in the battlefield.

TRAPS After the units are positioned, the defending side may set up traps, if there is an advisor in one of the units. If there is an advisor on the attacking side, the enemy's traps may be discovered. There are two types of traps:

Pitfalls: You can dig two to five pitfalls depending on your advisor's intelligence. Select the area you wish to dig. The number of soldiers will decrease when an enemy moves to the pitfall area. This trap will not affect units on your own side.

Hay: Select an area where you will hide bales of hay. Set the hay on fire with a firebolt or by using the Fire command, and the area will quickly be engulfed in flames. The number of soldiers will decrease, if a unit is in range of the fire. Units on your own side may also be affected.

NAVAL BATTLE

Naval battle

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

If you enter a field battle near a large river (indicated in light blue in the Main Display Map), a naval battle will begin. The units will be on ships and cannot go back onto land. The commands Move, Attack, and Plot, are different than in a field battle. You cannot use the Betray command.

Move: Regardless of the type of unit, the mobility of all units are the same on water.

Attack: You will not be able to use the Charge or Duel commands, but an officer with the special talent "Naval" will give you an advantage.

Plot: Instead of the Chaos command you will be able to use the Chain command. The Fire command sets only the enemy's ship on fire.

WAR COMMANDS

The following commands are available in a battle. Units accepting your commands will be displayed with a flag icon. To select a unit, use the Directional Pad or press Button Y or Z to move the cursor on the unit and press Button C. Once you have selected a unit, you may move or attack. Press Button C again to view other War commands. Press the Button A to view the Battle Information Window.

MOVE The range you can move depends on your mobility and the terrain. You may not move to an area where another unit is positioned. To move a unit:

1. Select one of your units and press Button C.
2. Red circles indicates your mobility range. Select where you will move with the cursor.
3. When you move next to an enemy unit, and if you still have enough mobility, you may attack.

ATTACK To attack an enemy unit:

1. Select one of your units and press Button C.
2. The sword icon indicates enemy units in your attack range. Select a target. You may target enemy units, castle gates, or barrier gates. Battering Rams can attack only castle gates.
3. Select the type of attack (see the commands below).

NOTE: When you attack an enemy, the number in yellow represents the decreasing number of soldiers and the following number in white represents the remaining number of soldiers.

- NORMAL Attack an enemy unit next to you.
- GROUP Attack an enemy unit with two or more of your units. The commander must have a leadership level higher than 70. You cannot use this command in a castle battle.
- CHARGE Charge towards a neighboring enemy unit. Reduce the enemy unit's soldiers to zero and capture enemy officers. If the enemy unit is not completely destroyed, your unit will be pushed to the opposite side of the enemy unit. You cannot use this command in a naval battle.
- DUEL Duel among officers. The officers' power will affect the outcome of the duel. When an officer's stamina (the red and blue bar on the duel screen) reaches zero, the officer is defeated. You cannot use this command in a naval battle or on a castle wall.
- ARROW Attack by shooting arrows with your crossbow unit, strong crossbow unit, or auto crossbow unit. There is no limit to how many times a unit can shoot arrows. The shooting range depends on the type of weapon. The power of the arrow becomes stronger as the distance between you and the enemy unit decreases. An officer's stamina will decrease, if injured by an arrow.
- FIREBOLT Attack by shooting firebolts with your crossbow unit, strong crossbow unit, or auto crossbow unit. Depending on the training level of the unit, the amount of times they can shoot a firebolt in battle will vary from one to eight times. The power of the firebolt is stronger than a normal arrow. An officer's stamina will decrease if injured by a firebolt. A firebolt may catch the surrounding area on fire.
- CATAPULT Attack by launching boulders from far away. There is no limit to the number of times the boulders can be launched. If you choose to attack the castle gate, the effect is the same as a Gate Attack (see below). You cannot use the catapult to attack a unit that is close.
- GATE ATTACK Lower the defense level of the castle gate. This can only be executed when the attacking side attacks the castle gate in a castle battle, or when the barrier gate is attacked in a field battle. If you succeed to open the barrier gate, you may move to the other side of the gate. When the defense of the castle gate reaches zero, the gate will open, and the attacking side will win the battle and the defending side may select to fight a final battle or flee.

PLOT

Plot against the enemy. The Plot command is affected by intelligence, training, and spirit levels. Each plot command requires a special talent, which is indicated in "< >".

ROMANCE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS IV

► FIRE <FIRE> Set fire to or near an enemy unit. Select an adjacent area you will set on fire. If you succeed, the area will catch fire. The number of enemy soldiers will decrease when the enemy unit is trapped in a fire. You cannot move to an area which has caught on fire. Wind direction and the type of terrain can make the fire spread quickly, and heavy rainfall can put out a fire. The likelihood of a fire spreading depends on the terrain. You cannot set fire to an ocean, river, swamp, or castle wall.

TERRAIN	FIRE EFFECT
Forest	10
Grasslands	10
Water	9
Plains, Roads	8
Mountain	3-6 (depending on altitude)

The larger the number, the easier it is to set fire.

- BOULDER <BOULDER> Drop boulders from the top of the castle wall or mountain onto an enemy unit. Select the area you wish to drop the boulder. The number of soldiers in the enemy unit will decrease, if hit by the boulder. You must have a stamina level over 80 and more than 1000 soldiers in the unit to execute this plot.
- PROVOKE (PRVKE) <PROVOKE> Provoke two neighboring enemy units to fight against each other. If you succeed, the number of enemy soldiers will decrease.
- CHAOS <CHAOS> Confuse the enemy unit. If you succeed, the enemy unit will be immobilized for the next couple of turns and the unit will be marked with a "?" marker. This command can only be used in a field battle.
- CHAIN <CHAIN> Use this plot in a naval battle to chain enemy ships together. If you succeed, the enemy units will be immobilized for a couple of turns. This command can only be used in a naval battle.
- WEATHER <WEATHER> Change the weather. Select from: clear, cloudy, drizzle, rainy, and rainstorm. If you succeed, the weather will change to your selection. You must have a stamina level over 80.
- WIND <WIND> Change the direction of the wind. Select from: north, northeast, northwest, south, southeast, southwest, and no wind. If you succeed, the wind direction will change to your selection. This command will affect how a fire spreads. You must have a stamina level over 80.

► BOLT <BOLT> Drop a bolt of lightning. If you succeed, lightning bolts will fall to the units (including your own units) at random. If a unit is struck by lightning, the number of soldiers will decrease. You can only use this command when you are in a rainstorm in a field battle. You must have a stamina level over 80.

► LIES <LIES> Spread false information to the enemy's reinforcements or joint units. If you succeed, the enemy reinforcements or joint units will flee to another city. You can only use this command in a castle battle.

BETRAY

Persuade an enemy officer to betray his army. Select the unit and the enemy officer. If you succeed, the enemy officer will bring soldiers and switch to your side.

Hidden Officer: Order your officer in hiding (See the Hide command) to switch sides. This officer is most likely to follow your order.

Bribed Officer: Persuade an officer, whom you bribed before the battle (See the Bribe command), to betray his army. The chances of success are lower for this officer than for a hidden officer.

Enemy Officer: Persuade an enemy officer to betray his army. The chances of success depend on the officer's loyalty and character.

FLEE

Flee from a battle. If your commander-in-chief flees, you will lose the battle. If you fail to flee, you will be captured. Even if you succeed to flee, an enemy unit may chase you and attack some of your soldiers. Your chances of succeeding depends on your officers' power and intelligence, your units' training level and spirit, and your distance from the enemy unit.

Before you flee, you must select to which neighboring city to flee:

Field Battle: the city from which you sent your army (red text), a vassal city (yellow text), or an unclaimed city (white text).

Castle Battle: the city from which you sent your army (attacking side only, red text), a vassal city (yellow text), or an unclaimed city (white text).

INFORMATION (INFO)

View information on each unit. Select the unit you wish to view. You may view information on your units as many times as you like during turn. It will cost 100 gold pieces to view enemy unit information, but you may view it as many times as you like in that turn. After you select the unit, the Unit Data Window will appear. If you select an officer in that screen and press Button C, the Officer Data Screen will be displayed.

DELEGATE

When you select the Delegate command, the selected unit will be under delegated control until the battle ends. To regain your direct control, select this command and the delegated unit. If you delegate control for the commander-in-chief's unit, all units in the battle will be placed under delegated control. To cancel the delegated control of all units, press Button B before the five second countdown reaches zero.

DOUSE Put out a fire on your unit's ship. You can only use this command in a naval battle. If you succeed, the fire will be extinguished. Your success depends on your unit's training level and spirit.

TAUNT <TAUNT> Yell taunts at an enemy unit. If you succeed, the enemy unit's spirit will decrease. If you fail, the enemy unit's spirit may increase. This command can only be used in a castle battle.

REPAIR <REPAIR> Repair the gate after the defense level has decreased. Only an infantry unit from the defending side can execute this command. If you succeed, the gate defense strength will increase. The maximum defense strength differs from castle to castle.

CEASE Call for a cease-fire. Only a commander-in-chief in a castle battle can execute this command.

► THREAT Threaten the enemy to surrender. Only the attacking side can make a threat. If you succeed, the defending side will surrender. You cannot use this command if the ruler of the defending side is participating in the battle.

► TRUCE Negotiate a cease-fire by offering gold and provisions. Only the defending side can offer a truce. If you succeed, the attacking side will release any prisoners and withdraw to another city.

► FORFEIT Both the defending side and the attacking side can forfeit. If you succeed, both parties will release prisoners and the defending side will leave gold, provisions, and weapons and flee to another city.

TRAP The attacking side will check the area, if they suspect that traps have been set. The defending side may confirm where they set the trap. This command can only be used in a field battle.

DEPLOY Give orders to deploy reserve officers to battle from inside the castle. To deploy officers, you must organize a new unit. You cannot use this command if there are more than five units or 10 officers in battle. Only the defending side in a castle battle can use this command.

AFTER WAR

POST-WAR SETTLEMENTS

After you win a battle, you must decide what to do with your prisoners. You may select the following options:

Recruit: Place the officer under your control.

Free: Allow the officer to escape.

Prison: Make the officer your prisoner.

Execute: Behead the officer.

When you capture a ruler, the options you have after battle will differ, depending on the situation.

1. When there is a city available to flee: Free and Execute.
2. When there is no city to flee and the ruler has no vassal cities: Recruit, Free and Execute.
3. When there is no city to flee to and the ruler has vassal cities: Execute.

When you select Execute, then automatically a successor is selected as a new ruler. When you (the ruler) are executed, you may select a successor from the subordinate officers. When there is no successor, the family line is destroyed and the game ends.

THE AGE OF THE THREE KINGDOMS

SCENARIO 1:

DONG ZHUO TRIUMPHS IN LUO YANG (189 A.D.)

At the end of the second century, the death of Emperor Ling intensified the bitter struggle between the court eunuchs and the Imperial family. The Yellow Turban Rebels destroyed the political authority of the Eastern Han Dynasty and plunged the nation into chaos. The confusion allowed regional figures to gain power. Finally, one of them seized the Imperial capital of Luo Yang. That figure was Dong Zhuo.

Dong Zhuo's forces met with setbacks in fierce battles against Cao Cao's League at Fan Shui Gate and Hu Lao Gate. In complete rage, Dong Zhuo set fire to Luo Yang and moved the Imperial capital to Chang An.

The closing of the Eastern Han Dynasty had created an era of violent battles between rulers.

SCENARIO 2:

TURMOIL SPREADS IN CHINA (194 A.D.)

Cao Cao declared independence in the Yan territory and suppressed the Yellow Turban Rebels in the Xu territory. He formed the Ching Regional Guards from the best of the captured Yellow Turban Rebels who became the nucleus of his army.

After a year of fierce fighting, Cao Cao defeated Lu Bu and regained the Yan territory. He invited the wandering Emperor Xian to join him in Xu Chang. By becoming the Emperor's protector, Cao Cao gained an advantage in distinguishing himself from many of his rivals.

He then attacked Zhang Xiu, destroyed Lu Bu, and expanded his realm and power. But as Cao Cao continued his rapid advances, his one time ally Yuan Shao raised a vast army to oppose him.

SCENARIO 3:

CAO CAO EXPANDS HIS DOMAIN (201 A.D.)

While Cao Cao was engrossed in preparations to fight Yuan Shao, Liu Bei began operating independently of Cao Cao. When his participation in a plot to kill Cao Cao was exposed, Cao Cao attacked Liu Bei and made him flee to Yuan Tan's protection.

After the Battle of Guang Du, Yuan Shao died and the fall of the Yuan family began. The discord between the Yuan brothers, invited Cao Cao to launch an attack. The battle became so uncontrollable that one by one, all the members of the Yuan family, including Yuan Tan, Yuan Xi, Yuan Shang and Gao Gan, were killed.

In the end, Cao Cao stood victorious as the ruler of all central China.

SCENARIO 4:

BATTLE OF RED WALL (208 A.D.)

While chasing the fleeing Liu Bei, Cao Cao began his southern campaign. He scattered Liu Bei's weak force and China seemed on the verge of unification under Cao Cao. At that time, Sun Quan formed an alliance with Liu Bei and Lu Su to create new forces from the Wu and the Jing territories. But the forces of Wu dealt Cao Cao a grievous defeat in the Battle of Red Wall.

Liu Bei and Cao Cao's armies entered a naval battle on the Yangtze River. Pang Tong, an allied spy for Liu Bei, advised Cao Cao to link his ships together for easier navigation. Not knowing Pang Tong was an enemy, Cao Cao followed his advice. When Liu Bei sent a flaming ship into Cao Cao's fleet, all of the ships caught fire. The Yangtze River was veiled in a wall of fire. The armies of Wu crushed Cao Cao's armies thanks to ingenious strategy of Liu Bei's advisor Zhuge Liang and Pang Tong. Cao Cao barely escaped back to Xu Chang.

Just as Zhuge Liang imagined, China divided into three distinct spheres of influence.

SCENARIO 5:

BIRTH OF THE THREE KINGDOMS (221 A.D.)

By 215 A.D., China was divided into three kingdoms: Wei ruled by Cao Cao, Wu ruled by Sun Quan, and Shu ruled by Liu Bei.

In the kingdom of Wei, Cao Cao died and his son, Cao Pi, succeeded him. Cao Pi forced the abdication of the Emperor Xian and pronounced himself emperor. The Eastern Han Dynasty was destroyed and the age of the Three Kingdoms began.

Sun Quan's subordinates Lu Meng and Lu Xun had long tried to conquer the Jing territory. Finally Guan Yu succumbed to their plots and was trapped between the armies of Wei and Wu. Guan Yu fought desperately to no avail, and the Jing territory fell into Sun Quan's hands.

Liu Bei went into a rage and raised a great army to move against the Wu kingdom. But Zhang Fei was assassinated before his army could mobilize and Liu Bei was defeated by Lu Xun. Liu Bei entrusted his advisor, Zhuge Liang, with care of the kingdom following his death. Zhuge Liang formed an alliance with the Wu kingdom and began his northern campaigns.

SCENARIO 6:

CLASH OF WEI, WU, AND SHU (235 A.D.)

Despite repeated encounters, neither Zhuge Liang nor Sima Yi could get the upper hand in their struggle for more power. Zhuge Liang had shown himself to be a military genius many times, but despite constant efforts he could not win. At Wu Zhang Yuan, Zhuge Liang turned over all his forces to his subordinate Jiang Wei before he passed away.

Jiang Wei earnestly attacked the Wei and Shu army. Sima Yi's sons Sima Shi and Sima Zhao of Wei successfully blocked Jiang Wei's attacks, but the armies of Shu ultimately failed. Under the burden of constant warfare, the people of Shu became exhausted and Wei successfully invaded the kingdom.

After pacifying Shu, Sima Yen proclaimed himself the first emperor of the Chin Dynasty and thereafter conquered the Wu kingdom. With Sima Yen's unification of China, the curtain fell on the Age of the Three Kingdoms.

CHARACTER PROFILES

RULERS OF THE THREE KINGDOMS

CAO CAO

Cao Cao is the most famous officer of the Romance of the Three Kingdoms. It is said that he was "a wise ruler to govern the land, a great villain to ruin the land." Cao Cao collected talent around himself, and even tried to enlist Guan Yu, a former enemy. He said of himself, "Even though I try to turn my back on the world, the world will not allow it."

When he broke his own military code, he cut off his hair as atonement to keep his code intact. When his son, Cao Pi, rose to Vice Prime Minister, together they became the true power behind the Han Dynasty.

LIU BEI

Although Liu Bei served others for almost fifty years, he eventually became a very strong independent ruler. Liu Bei pledged his oath of eternal brotherhood to two warriors, Guan Yu and Zhang Fei in the famous "Peach Tree Oath" and vowed to defend the Han Emperor. He formed this brotherhood before setting out to war and pledging to rescue the Han Dynasty. At the height of his time, he declared the Shu-Han Dynasty, but soon after he faced continuous defeats in battle.

SUN QUAN

Sun Quan was the third member of the magnificent family of Sun. His father Sun Jian laid the foundation, his elder brother Sun Ce expanded it, and Sun Quan kept it intact. One of his stronger military moments was when he allied with Liu Bei and Zhuge Liang to defeat Cao Cao at the Battle of Red Wall. Sun Quan far outlived both Sun Jian and

Sun Ce, and the Wu kingdom was the last of the three kingdoms to fall.

FAMOUS STRATEGISTS

SIMA YI

Sima Yi was an advisor of Wei. When Zhuge Liang launched his northern campaigns, Sima Yi tightened Wei's defenses and devoted himself to a war of retirement. When Zhuge Liang sent him a woman's death shroud and crown, the other generals of Wei became enraged and demanded to know why Sima Yi did not settle the war once and for all. Sima Yi did not launch a counterattack because he knew Zhuge Liang was old and would not last much longer. His grandson Sima Yen established the new Jin empire, which eventually conquered the Wu and Shu kingdoms.

ZHUGE LIANG

Zhuce Liang, also known as "Hidden Dragon", impressed Liu Bei so much that Liu Bei made him his own advisor. At the Battle of Red Wall, he formed an alliance with Sun Quan that led to a victory over Cao Cao. After that victory, he built the Sword of the Seven Stars. He was credited with the invention of the auto crossbow and the wagon, and was viewed as an active advisor. He is also credited with visualizing the formation of the Three Kingdoms of Wei, Shu and Wu.

ZHOU YU

Zhou Yu was known as "the beautiful warrior" because of his bearing and handsomeness, but he was also a brave and daring warrior of genius. He swore an oath of brotherhood with Sun Ce and as the younger brother he took Xiao Qiao as his wife. After the Battle of Red Wall he engaged in many secret plots with Zhuge Liang in both the public and private spheres. But he was weak of body and prone to illness and died of a sickness at 36 years of age. Zhuge Liang himself paid a visit of condolence after his death.

THE COMBATANTS

DONG ZHUO

Dong Zhuo gained military strength after he led an army to Luo Yang and established his rule. When Cao Cao formed a league against him he set Luo Yang on fire and moved the Imperial capital to Chang An. With his new might he made cowardly Emperor Shao abdicate the throne in favor of the virtuous Chen Liu. Seeing his adopted son Lu Bu's fierce potential, he made him an ally and used Li Ru's wise strategies. Dong Zhuo's tyrannical behavior, however, led to disaster, and he was killed by the hand of Lu Bu.

Lu Bu

Lu Bu was well known for his superhuman strength, and many people said, "Best among men, Lu Bu; best among horses, the Red Hare." Lu Bu's life was marked by a series of betrayals. He began life as Ding Yuan's adopted son, but he assassinated him and switched to Dong Zhuo's side. He later succeeded in plotting Dong Zhuo's murder with Wang Yun. Lu Bu even betrayed Liu Bei, who supported him while he was in exile. In the end, Lu Bu was betrayed by one of his subordinates and captured by Cao Cao, who had him put to death.

Taishi Ci

Taishi Ci has served under many rulers in his lifetime. He was indebted to Kong Rong, but was then employed by Liu Yong, but was treated with contempt. His enemy Sun Ce, with whom he had fought in a duel, had more appreciation for his abilities, so later he switched to Sun Ce's side. After Sun Ce's death, he served Sun Quan and became known as a man of great loyalty.

Yuan Shao

Yuan Shao was the head of the Yuan family, which produced three lords over four generations. He served as commander-in-chief of The League Against Dong Zhuo. Thereafter, he expanded his domain towards north China and became very powerful. After losing the Battle of Guang Du, however, he lost all hope of ruling central China, because he failed to heed the advice of Tian Feng and Xu You. When Cao Cao defeated his sons, the despondent Yuan Shao died of illness.

Yuan Shu

Yuan Shu was the governor of Nan Yang and the younger cousin of Yuan Shao. During the battle against Dong Zhuo, he refused to send provisions to Sun Jian. When Sun Ce came to him, he traded his soldiers for the Hereditary Seal and proclaimed himself emperor. He lost the loyalty of his people and soldiers, and his army abandoned him after losing to Liu Bei. Yuan Shu died after he ran out of provisions.
